INSIDE VIEW

Rev. Kevin Scott

As a teenager, I grappled with overthinking and the persistent fear that the worst possible outcome awaited me in every situation. The incessant conversations in my mind often felt like my worst enemies. Then I stumbled upon a Bible verse that resonated deeply with me and provided a glimmer of hope.

In the midst of teaching His followers about the Kingdom of God and living in His presence, Jesus talked about allowing worry to become consuming. He reminded them that if God cares for all of creation, for the bird and the flower, how much more does He care for the ones made in His image?

And then Jesus offered a profound reassurance: "Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own" (Matthew 6:34). Despite its simplicity, this verse became a guiding light, granting me the freedom to embrace the present moment rather than being consumed by future uncertainties.

Worry, as I discovered, is a universal struggle that often infiltrates our lives unnoticed, much like an unwanted hitchhiker. It stealthily creeps into our minds, robbing us of peace and tranquility. For truck drivers, who spend long hours traversing vast distances and facing an uncertain future, worry can become an unwelcome companion, accompanying them on their solitary journeys.

During my time at Truck World in Toronto this past April, I had the privilege of interacting with numerous drivers who stopped by our booth. Their stories painted a vivid picture of the stresses and challenges they encounter on the road. Many spoke of the isolation they feel within the confines of their cabs, where the echoes of past pains and future concerns often reverberate loudest.

We were at Truck World to introduce the website www.DriversMatter.ca, our new initiative aimed at supporting truck drivers. Our goal is simple: to spread the message that worry does not have to be a constant companion. Through DriversMatter.ca, we remind drivers that they are never alone on their journey. Whether in the vast expanse of the open road or the quiet confines of their cabs, God is present, offering solace and companionship.

DriversMatter.ca is a resource to help drivers navigate the challenges they face; with access to a chaplain who is just a phone call away, we strive to create a community where drivers can find encouragement and strength.

Life is undoubtedly filled with hardships, but it is infinitely more bearable when we know that we do not have to face it alone. God invites us to cast all our cares upon Him, assuring us that burdens are lighter when shared. So, to all the truck drivers out there, remember this: you are never alone, and your worries need not define you. Together, let us journey towards a future filled with hope and freedom from the weight of worry.

YETI Winners At Truck World 2024

TruckWorld 2024 in Toronto was the perfect location for TFC to launch the new driver initiative—the Never Alone campaign. The campaign features a website, DriversMatter.ca, and an online/on call chaplain available all the time. To launch the campaign, one free YETI mug, branded with the campaign name and website, was given away every hour. Over the three days 39 mugs were given away.

Full Load

One thing most drivers don't like to hear is that it's a "live load" (unless you're nearing your well-deserved ten-hour break, or you've been working many continuous hours and need some sleep). Live loads tend to take a while, and we feel this time could be better spent driving to our destination.

No matter whether it's a live load or drop and hook, one of the first things we look at is the total weight of the product. This includes all the pallets, too. We know how much freight can be put on our trailers before we become overweight. Then we have a whole new problem on our hands.

But that's not the full load I want to talk to you about. I'd like to discuss another type of full load that is overflowing from our lives. A fullness that everyone can see, and hopefully wants to experience the same full load (something drivers don't hear every day). Let's look at just one verse in the book of Philippians. It's found in chapter one, verse eleven. It says, "Having been filled with the fruit of righteousness which comes through Jesus Christ, to the glory and praise of God."

Three things stand out to me in this verse. Number one, "fruit of righteousness." This is the product that we are to be full of. So full that it overflows from us. OK, what is this fruit and what does it look like? Let's go over to Galatians chapter five, verses twenty-two and twenty-three. It says that "the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control." This is what we are to be full of. These are things that we don't see very often in our industry. Several of these are considered by the world as being weaknesses. But I say, the more the better. Our world could use a whole lot more of these.

Number two, where do we get this load of fruit? Going back to Philippians chapter one, it says, "which comes through Jesus Christ." We can't produce this load of fruit on our own. When we turn our lives over to Jesus, He produces it for us (if you're not sure if you've ever turned your life over to Jesus, please call the number on the cover of this magazine). John chapter fifteen, verse five says that "I [Jesus] am the vine, you [us] are the branches; he who abides in Me and I in him, he bears much fruit, for apart from Me you can do nothing." This is where we get loaded.

Number three, "to the glory and praise of God." Being loaded with this fruit from Jesus brings honor and glory to God. This is our chance to share the reason for our fruit with others. Because Romans chapter five, verse eight says, "But God demonstrates His own love towards us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Let me encourage you to be full of that!

It's Not Just a Man's World: Interview with a Lady Trucker

By Beverley Robson, Ph.D.

Scripture holds the elderly in high esteem. So must we. Trucker's wife Mary Klassen looks back and shares wise counsel for wives staying at home while their husbands are on the road.

TFC: Mary, you and your husband, John, are retired now. Tell us something about the days when trucking was your livelihood. Mary: My husband and I were married 60 years ago! In the early days, he did delivery trips from Winnipeg to the northern part of the province. Later in British Columbia he did even longer hauls across the western part of Canada. When he purchased his own truck he became an owner-operator of several Kenworths and Peterbilts over the years. John was very disciplined and a good businessman.

TFC: Please tell us about your Christian experience. Mary: We both grew up in Christian homes where attending church and Sunday School became building blocks for our future together. Growing in our faith is as important today as it was then.

TFC: As you look back, what were some of your key strategies to do your part to contribute to a healthy and stable family? Mary: First, I vowed to never be the cause of a marriage breakup! I deliberately tried to make our home a place he loved coming back to. When he came back home, we were both tired, consequently we ended up having many dinner dates! Also, we read the Bible together most mornings. Faith in our family was an active thing, not passive.

TFC: Do you have any words of advice for younger truckers' wives today? Mary: Yes—pray for him and make your home a place he loves to come home to. And "Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding" (Proverbs 3:5).

Thank you, Mary, for a lifetime of serving Christ and supporting your family and your trucking business. And for sharing with us today.

HISTORY OUR STORY

Terry Wills

King David Served His Generation

From humble beginnings as a shepherd boy, David became the greatest monarch ever to rule Israel. After the sad ending of King Saul, David was crowned king about 1000 BC. Under his leadership, the country was united and regained all of the land lost to their enemies.

David, known for his military feats, marched fearlessly against the enemies of Israel and defeated them time after time. The Bible records in 1 Chronicles 18:5 that the Lord gave David victory everywhere he went. Israel had no rivals and became "the world power" of that era. In many of these battles and skirmishes, the odds were against his troops, but David lived with a heart full of faith for God, and when God directed David to advance, he obeyed because he was totally convinced that God would do exactly as He said He would do.

Your life and story are important, and God has a special part of His Story to write with you specifically in mind. Throughout human history, He has chosen to interact with regular people like you and me to fulfil His plan. Each Christian, each follower of Jesus Christ, has a unique place in His Story.

The Lord made David's name great; his name is the second most mentioned in the Bible, second only to the name of Jesus. The name "David" means friend or beloved, and David was loved by his people. He left a good legacy—his obituary in the Bible says that he "served God's purposes in his own generation" (Acts 13: 36). It is important to note that—David was not focused on his own personal agenda for power or wealth. He had a heart that passionately followed God and sought to put God's agenda before his own. The power of David's reign was in his relationship with God. When his heart was in tune with the heart of God, David was in a place to serve Israel, and the whole country was blessed.

There are many lessons that could be taken from David and his journey with God but two stand out. First, he loved to worship God. Many of the Psalms were written by David to praise God. He writes in Psalm 145, "I will exalt you, my God the King. I will praise your name forever. Every day I will praise you." Second, David was a humble man. Although the greatest king in the history of Israel, David humbled his heart before God in repentance when he sinned.

Was David perfect? Certainly not! He struggled with lust, was not a great father, and made some very bad decisions that affected his family. However, God was able to use him in an incredible way to serve "His purposes" to that generation because of his faith in a God who was thoroughly trustworthy, and because he humbled himself and repented of his sin and obeyed the Lord.

God has a purpose, a work for each of us. I believe the deep desire of each of us who follow Jesus is to be a witness to our generation, and to serve God where He has placed us. We want others to know Jesus and His peace that passes understanding. May we be encouraged to do His work in our circle of influence and share by word or deed the story of Jesus our Saviour and His love, His grace, His forgiveness and His gift of eternal life.

Reporting from the Brazilian Front

By Chaplain Marcelo da Silva Soares

Sharing Breakfast and the Gospel—During my walk around the lot, I saw a truck parked far away from all others, at the very end of the property. No one seemed to be around it but I decided to check anyway, and noticed movement at the truck's "kitchen" (note: in Brazil, companies build "boxes" for truckers, which are equipped with storage drawers to keep supplies to prepare food; these are attached to the underside of the trailers). There I met trucker Clovis, who was preparing his breakfast and invited me to share the meal with him. As we talked, I asked about his family and life as a trucker. Clovis said he was married, had two children, and had been working as a truckers for 10 years. When I explained that I was a chaplain, Clovis told me he didn't attend church but that he believed in God. This opened the door for me to share about the saving grace of Jesus Christ and God's plan for our lives. Clovis was very open and ready to listen, so I asked him if he would like to accept Christ as his Saviour, and he answer with a happy "yes," and prayed with me committing his life to the Lord.

He Said He Felt Hopeless, Found that there's Always Hope in the Lord—Leandro is an employee of Sudmar (the company where we hold a meeting with the employees and truck drivers every Thursday morning).

One day I had a chance to have a personal talk with him, when he confessed that, because of certain circumstances, he had left his faith some three years before (he said he had been a pastor, but now struggled with addictions). He said he felt hopeless, that self-accusing thoughts go through his head constantly, taking over his feelings. I listened to him for quite a while, allowing him to unburden his heart. With tears he expressed his gratitude, saying how much he needed this chance talk to someone. Before leaving, I prayed for him and Leandro prayed as well, recommitting his life to the Lord. We are keeping in touch with him on a regular basis, helping him in his renewed walk with Christ.

Wife and Daughters Hadn't Talked to Him in Years—When we met trucker Roberto, it didn't take long for him to open up, sharing with tears that he was alienated from his family. He said it was two years since he last heard from his wife and daughters; they wouldn't talk to him because of something he had done that they could not forgive. He said he had asked their forgiveness, to no avail. We allowed him to unburden his grief, then ministered to him from God's Word, telling him that God was aware of his situation and wanted to walk with him through it; would he be willing to commit not just his grief, but his life to Him? Yes, he said, he needed to do that, and we prayed with him as he surrendered his life to Christ. We have stayed in touch with him, and on March 25th he called us, joyfully telling us his family was talking to him again!

Lost His Family and Almost Lost His Life; Now Found New Life in Christ—When truck driver Fábio stopped at the Imbituba Chapel, Chaplain Joel could tell from his face that he was in a depressed frame of mind. As they talked, Fábio explained that he always focused on work, thinking it was the best he could do for his family. However, he ended up losing them as a result of being gone from home for three to four months at a time. He also said that God had preserved his life when he had a serious accident where his truck was totaled but he escaped unharmed. This opened the way for Chaplain Joel to point out that the same God who had preserved his physical life in the accident had a plan of eternal life for him, if he made a commitment to Jesus Christ as his Saviour. Fábio responded with joy, making a decision for Christ.

He Found Out Jesus Loved Him, Dreadlocks and All

I met David, a Zambian truck driver, at a truck park where I was sharing the Word of God with other drivers. He told me that he had been discouraged to join Christianity by preachers who approached him and asked him to shave off his dreadlocks. "I love my dreadlocks, and asking me to shave them off is like asking me to take on someone else's personality, which I do not like," he said. "If that is what Christianity means, then I would give it a pass."

I read Romans 3:23-24 for him, where the Bible says that "all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, and all are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus." I told him that the whole life of a person depends on the choices he makes.

"You chose to be a truck driver because there is something you are aiming at in life," I said. "An aimless life is like a ship without a rudder, out on the sea without direction; or a letter posted without an address which, despite the good words written in it, will never reach the intended person. The single most important choice you can make in life is to prepare yourself for eternity, and you do that by accepting Jesus Christ as your Lord and personal Saviour. You can come to Him just as you are—dreadlocks and all."

David told me that my preaching was loving, it was different from everything he had heard from others. He gladly responded saying he wanted to give his life to Jesus and I led him in prayer. He promised he would look for a church that would accept him with his dreadlocks, now that he knew not all Christians were like the ones who gave him a hard time about it.

The Truck Had Become His Regular Home

One day, as I moved about the parking lot looking for someone with whom to share the Gospel, I saw a driver seated in his truck browsing on his phone. When I approached him and introduced myself, he told me his name was Blessing and that he was from Zimbabwe. I offered him a copy of the Good News for Life's Highway magazine, which he accepted, asking me what it was all about.

His receptive attitude opened the way for me to share the Gospel with him by drawing his attention to the ABCs of Salvation at the back of the magazine. When I finished, Blessing told me that he had been a dedicated Christian at one time, but that the challenges he faced in his trucking job had "corrupted his stand in the Lord," he said, adding, "Because many people think that truck drivers make a lot of money, we are targets of all kinds of distortions from people who are in official capacities, like police, immigration, customs, etc., especially in the Congo where I regularly travel. In addition, we have to pay for legitimate expenses and buy food for ourselves on the road. Before we leave home, we have to leave enough money with our families because many of us, as is my case, have to be gone for a log time. I usually stay away from my family for two to three months at a time. It pains me that I have to be away from them for such a long time—this truck is now my regular home. Sometimes we are forced to engage in some illegal deals in order to raise enough money to pay for all our expenses," he concluded.

To encourage him, I read Proverbs 19:21 from the Road Map New Testament, which says, "We may make a lot of plans, but the Lord will do what he has decided." Then I said to him, "According to what we just read, God has plans for your life, and His plans are not what you may be planning. For you to see the full blessings of God in your life—and your name is Blessing!—you need to walk with the Lord in all your ways without blaming your job for failing to do so."

Blessing smiled and said, "That is true!" He rededicated his life to Jesus, and I prayed with him.

ACTSA Chapel Now Provides FREE Printing, Copying and Secretarial Services to Drivers

Truck drivers usually find themselves stuck in truck parks across Southern Africa for days, awaiting documents to be processed or facing some mechanical challenges on their trucks. There are cases when their dispatch office or agents who are elsewhere require them to print or copy some documents. Many times these services are offered by offices which are quite a distance away from their location, and there is a charge for that service.

What a relief for these drivers that the ACTSA Chapel is now able to offer these services after acquiring a printer two months ago. Truckers are surprised-shocked, even!—that someone would offer them such a service for free!

One such case was Driver Kupara (photo), who was on his way to South Africa and needed his vehicle permit so that he could continue with his journey. The permit had been sent by his bosses, but needed to be printed. Another driver, Trust, had been waiting for his load documents from his agent. He did not need to travel to their office, some four kilometers away, because he received them on his phone and came into the chapel to have them printed.

This service has resulted in an increase of truck drivers coming to the chapel, and has given us many opportunities to share the Gospel, as we remind them that it is the same with the love of Christ, which is offered to us for free.

From the Heart of a Chaplain

By Chaplain Geoff Sutton, Pass Lake Chapel

Have you ever taken the time to consider what it means to be a criminal? We think of a criminal as being a bank robber, a thief, a murderer. But has it ever occurred to you that all of us are criminals? For example, speed limits. They are the law, which means breaking them is breaking the law. So even though we typically are not charged for going 5 or 10 miles over the limit, as soon as we go over we are guilty. However, the reason we are not charged is that the police and legal system are not just. I know it sounds weird to say that, but being just means doing what is right. So when I break the law, I deserve to be charged. That is justice.

We like to think of justice in terms of ourselves, though. What is "just" usually means, to us, what works best for us. What if things were a little different, however? What if charges were pressed for every slight infraction of the law? What if governments all over the world decided that there were no second chances? Would that be fair? Absolutely. Fair means getting what is deserved. A truly fair and just government would be a horrible thing to live under, though, because I would be incapable of paying all the fines and penalties I would owe. And it doesn't matter how many good and wonderful things I had done—as soon as I broke the law, I was guilty and deserved punishment. That is justice.

But in a bigger sense, it would be a good thing. See, we do live under a completely fair and just law. God gave us this law in the ten commandments, and we have all broken every one of them. Adultery? Jesus said, if you look at someone lustfully you have committed adultery. Murder? Again, if you have hated or been angry at someone, you have committed murder in your heart. This is because God looks at our hearts more than at our actions. But back to our problem.

We have a very strict law to keep. If we keep it perfectly, never having broken any part of it ever in our lives, God has said we can enter heaven. But none of us can, so we have all been found guilty. There is no scale: our good cannot wipe out our bad. Anything less than perfect means we cannot stand before God because God is absolutely just. Fortunately for us God, along with being just, is also absolutely merciful. And absolutely loving.

Being just means that He cannot wipe our crimes off the board. The debt must be paid, and the wages of sin is death. Because God's law is a perfect law, the payment must be a perfect payment. Since we are obviously imperfect we can either spend all of eternity trying to pay that debt, or let someone else pay it for us. God, knowing this, came and lived among us in the person of Jesus, the second member of the Trinity. He lived the perfect life we could not, then died at the hands of men. He did this willingly because His death was the payment for us, and sufficient for every crime ever committed in the past, present or future. And He has promised that whoever trusts Him will have eternity in heaven with Him. But trust is an interesting word. In this case what it means is that Jesus drives. We trust His navigation, we trust His steering and we constantly seek to go where He leads.

As I see it, I have messed up enough in my life. I want someone who knows what he is doing to direct things. Psalm 1:2-3 says that the person who delights in the Word of God is like a tree planted by streams of water whose leaf does not wither, and whatever he does prospers. I would rather live my life at the direction of someone who knows everything than try to stumble through on my own, always uncertain whether I am doing the right thing. Because I trust Jesus, the future holds no fear or uncertainty for me: He has it under control. Everyone is invited to this same security. We just need to decide to follow His leading rather than be enslaved to our desires. Turn to God today, and every day, and commit your time to Him. If you truly give Him control you will not be disappointed, and you will know peace in these times.

I promise you that.

Nouvelles en Français du Québec

Par Jacques Poirier, Aumônier - Saint-Liboire, Québec

Bonjour, dans ce numéro de notre revue, j'aimerais vous partager quelque chose d'intéressant au sujet (des clefs du Royaume). Dans l'Évangile de Matthieu au chapitre 16 et verset 19, nous Lisons que Jésus s'adresse à Pierre en ces termes. Je te donne les clefs du Royaume des cieux : Ce que tu lieras sur la terre sera lié dans les cieux, et ce que tu délieras sur la terre sera délier dans les cieux.

Les clefs du Royaume ont été données dans un but très précis, celui de lier et de délier. (Qui, quand et pourquoi?) L'apôtre lui-même ne ne savait pas à l'époque. Dans Matthieu 18, 18 après avoir enseigné ses disciples au sujet du pardon des offenses, le Seigneur répète cette promesse. Mais cette fois Il s'adresse à tous ses disciples. Ceci nous permet de constater que cette autorité n'a pas été donnée à un seul homme mais bien à l'ensemble des disciples de Jésus.

Le verset Matthieu 18:19 nous dit que si deux d'entre nous s'accordent sur la terre pour demander une chose en son nom, elle lui sera accordée. Certaines personnes se sont approprié le pouvoir de pardonner ou de ne pas pardonner les péchés. Ces gens n'ont pas reçu l'exclusivité en matière de pardon ou de délivrance. Cette clef du Royaume a été donné à tous ceux qui sont né de nouveau, c'est-à-dire tous ceux qui ont donné leur vie à Jésus.

Dans l'Évangile de Jean au chapitre 20 et au verset 22-23, ce qui est dévoilé semble quelque peu énigmatique! (Après avoir soufflé sur eux, Il leur dit: Recevez le Saint-Esprit. Ceux à qui vous pardonnerez les péchés, ils leur seront pardonnés : Et ceux à qui vous les retiendrez, ils leur seront retenus.) Dans les actes des Apôtres au chapitre 2, le texte nous dit que les apôtres et ceux qui étaient avec eux ont reçu une puissance qui leur à donner la force et le courage d'utiliser les clefs du royaume et de rendre témoignage de ce que Jésus était venu annoncer. En tout 120 disciples ont reçu cette puissance. C'était la première Église chrétienne. Il est important de connaitre l'origine du mouvement chrétien. J'espère que vous allez apprécier.

Ce sera un plaisir pour moi de vous accueillir à la chapelle de Saint-Liboire.

Thank you for your partnership and support!

Do you know where you will spend eternity? You can – it's as easy as ABC...

A Admit that you have sinned.
"For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23).
"For the wages of sin is death…" (Romans 6:23a).
God loves us and wants a relationship with us; but He is holy and perfect and our sin separates us from Him.

B Believe that Jesus paid God's price for our sin when He died on the cross.
"But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8).
"…but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 6:23b).
God sent Jesus Christ to take the punishment for our sins on Himself, dying on the cross. When He rose from the dead on Easter morning, He broke the power of sin over those who choose to accept Him as their Saviour and Lord.

C Choose to accept Jesus' sacrifice for you and receive the free gift of forgiveness He offers.
"If you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved…For 'whoever calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved'" (Romans 10:9,13).
"If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9).

You CAN know where you will spend eternity. If you want to begin a relationship with God and allow Him to become your Forgiver and Saviour, pray this prayer and believe it in your heart: "God, I know that I have sinned and need forgiveness. Thank You for sending Jesus to pay the price for my sin so I can have a relationship with You. Today I put my trust in You. Become the leader of my life and help me to follow You from today forward. Amen."

If you prayed this prayer, we would like to help you begin your exciting new journey. Please send us an email to transportforchrist@outlook.com and let us know, so we can help you along this road.

Need to talk to someone? Need prayer? Or just some 'down' time? Stop by a TFC Chapel! We're there to serve you.
