Three Drivers, Three Stories, One Joyful Outcome—Page 6

INSIDE VIEW

Life on the road can feel like it runs on routine—mile after mile, day after day. But every trucker knows things can change in an instant. One moment, everything's going smoothly. The next, someone cuts you off, there's a wreck up ahead, or the weather turns bad and throws off your whole schedule. And then there's construction season...don't even get us started.

Some days it's smaller stuff—bad directions from dispatch, a warning light on the dash, or just feeling completely drained. That's when frustration kicks in and you start wondering, Why is everything going wrong? Why me?
But sometimes life hits even harder. Maybe you get a call with tough news from home. Maybe you're dealing with health issues, money problems, or just feeling really alone out there. These kinds of things don't just slow you down—they can really knock you off track.

When that happens, it's important to remember something: You're not in this alone.

The Bible says in Psalm 46:1, "God is our refuge and strength, always ready to help in times of trouble." In plain words, this means God is always right there with you—ready to help, ready to listen. You don't have to figure it all out by yourself.

And you don't need a fancy prayer or to be in a church to talk to Him. God hears you anywhere—behind the wheel, at a rest stop, parked for the night. Just talk to Him. Even something simple like "God, I need help" is enough.
Faith doesn't mean pretending everything's okay. It means knowing where to turn when it's not. God gives peace when things feel out of control, strength when you're tired, and hope when you're not sure what's ahead.

Some drivers keep a Bible in their truck. Others listen to Christian podcasts or pray before they start the engine. You don't need to be perfect or have all the answers. Just be honest. God meets you right where you are.
And don't forget—you're not the only one going through tough stuff. Other drivers are facing their own struggles too. Sometimes just talking to someone who understands can make a big difference.

That's why DriversMatter.ca has a chaplain you can call. No pressure, no judgment—just someone to talk to when you need support. If you're feeling overwhelmed or just need to hear a friendly voice, call 249-506-0100. Day or night, our chaplain is here for you.

Life will always have surprises. Some will test your patience. Others may break your heart. But none of them are bigger than God—and you never have to face them on your own.

So, the next time you hit a rough patch—a breakdown, a bad day, or something much bigger—take a deep breath. Remember you've got Someone riding with you who never takes a break. Let Him guide you, give you strength, and help you keep moving forward.

Keep rolling. Keep praying. You're never alone out there. Stay safe.

— A Special Evening at the Salisbury Chapel —

On May 24th, Chaplain Paul Leger hosted a memorable fund-raising concert in support of the Salisbury Chapel. The evening featured a heartfelt testimony from Darrell Killiam, owner of Action Tank Lines (pictured left on top photo), who shared how the ministry of Chaplain Paul and Transport For Christ has deeply impacted both his life and his company. One of his drivers, Dale Lackie (middle on photo), spoke about how the ministry has supported and encouraged him while out on the road.

The evening held an extra special moment as Daryll MacLeod and Darrell Duncan took the stage to honor Chaplain Paul and his wife, Debbie, for 25 years of dedicated service at the Salisbury Big Stop with TFC. Debbie was presented with flowers, and Paul received a commemorative plaque in recognition of this incredible milestone.

We extend our heartfelt thanks to Paul and Debbie for their unwavering commitment and faithful ministry over the years. Congratulations on 25 impactful years — well done!

Faith on the Road: A Trucker's Journey of Integrity

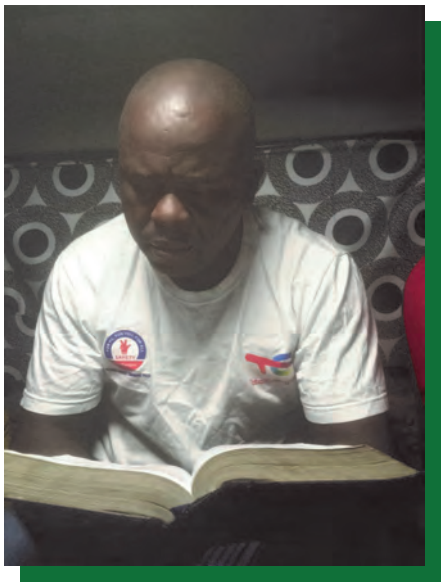
Submitted by Chaplain Brian Teputepu

My name is Goodwin Mukwiti. I'm a husband, a father of four, a pastor—and a long-haul truck driver. My job takes me across cities and borders, often far from home. But no matter where I go, I'm committed to living with purpose, integrity, and faith.

Truck driving can be a lonely life. With long hours on the road, isolation from family, and countless temptations along the way, it's easy to lose direction if you're not grounded. Early on, I realized I needed something more than just willpower to stay true to myself and those I love. That's when my faith in God became my anchor.

My truck cab has become more than a workspace—it's my place of prayer and reflection. I spend time reading the Bible and talking to God during breaks. I think of it like staying connected to a network; just as a phone needs signal, I need spiritual connection to stay strong. I often remind myself: "What I do in secret is what I show the world."

Being faithful in marriage is especially important to me. Life on the road presents many opportunities to compromise—but I've made a firm commitment to stay loyal to my wife. In 2016, at a truck stop in South Africa, I read a verse in the Bible that said, "I made a covenant with my eyes not to look lustfully at a young woman" (Job 31:1). That stuck with me. I decided to set personal boundaries: no carrying female passengers, no private visits, no compromising situations. I also make sure to call or video chat with my wife regularly, usually before I go to bed. Staying connected helps keep our bond strong.



Over the years, my employers have come to respect these values. They know I'm reliable and trust me with long hauls. Often, they'll plan my route so I can pass through home, even for a short visit. Sometimes, my wife and I meet up while I'm on the road to reconnect. These moments help build trust and keep our marriage healthy.

In July 2019, my family and I planted a church. When I'm away working, my wife and our church leaders continue the ministry. If I'm free on Sundays, I join the service online. When I'm home, I'm present—both as a husband and father, and as a church leader.

I don't share this to present myself as perfect but to show that living with purpose is possible—even on the road. My faith keeps me focused. My family keeps me grounded. My values help me stay true to who I want to be.

Wherever my wheels take me, I want to be the same man in private that I am in public—honest, faithful, and committed. That's what gives me peace. And that's the message I hope others can see through my life.

A New Beginning with God — By Chaplain Dally

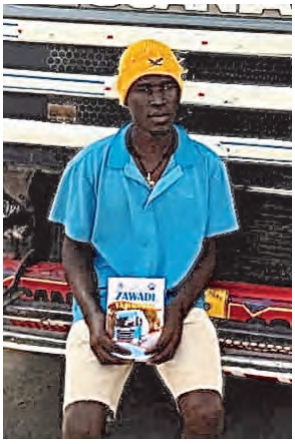
I met Tanzanian truck driver Abuba Samuel during a visit to a local parking lot where drivers gather. I had a copy of the Good News for Life's Highway magazine in my hand when I approached and greeted him. He asked me if I was a Jehovah's Witness preacher. "No," I told him, "I am a chaplain to truck drivers. My task is to preach the good news of Jesus Christ to truckers and to encourage Christian truckers to grow and remain strong in their faith."

Seeing that I had his full attention, I began to share the Gospel with him, starting with 2 Corinthians 5:17—"If anyone is in Christ, he is a new creature, the old things are passed away, behold, all things are made new." Then I said, "As a new creation, you would have the full favor of God when in need. Being in Christ denotes a close walk with Jesus and total dependence on Him. A new creature does not look at the past life and past mistakes but, by faith, looks at the future in Christ Jesus."

Samuel then began to tell me about the painful life experience he was going through at the time: "I am an experienced truck driver, but right now I don't have a steady job; I just accompany my friends as a truck driver's helper to earn some money to support my family. It was my bad behavior that caused this. I had a good job working for a reputable company. The head of the human resources department was a friend. Thinking that I was covered by a senior member of management, my behavior toward my colleagues and immediate supervisors was obnoxious; I had no regard for any of them.

"Once I gave myself a three-day break from work without permission. On the third day, I received a phone call from my friend, the director of human resources. He told me to see him in his office the next day because he had something important to tell me. When I met him, he told me he would be gone for six months, and gave me a warning: 'You need to be careful about your job.' When I left his office, I had a feeling that something was wrong. I headed straight for my truck and got into the driver's seat, but before I could start it, my supervisor came and told me to leave the truck alone. I had lost my job. I waited for my friend to return from South Africa, but as of today, it has been four years since I last saw him. That is also how long I have been without a regular job. I caused terrible suffering to my family because of my arrogant attitude toward my work and colleagues. Your message cut into my heart! I want to ask God for forgiveness; I long for a new beginning—I need deliverance from my past!" I assured Samuel that his confession had been heard by God. "Surrender your life to Jesus, and you will become a new creature and start a new, clean life in Him," I told him. Samuel gave his life to Christ, and I prayed for him.

Dismissal Dismissed After Trucker Surrenders to Christ!



My name is Kelvin Samweli, a resident of Moshi, Tanzania, and a company truck driver. Once I made a mistake at work that led to my being informed that I had been dismissed. I was clearly told that, upon returning to the company's offices in Moshi, I would be required to surrender the vehicle.

While traveling from Mwanza back to Moshi, I met Chaplain Amos Reuben Mahona, who shared the Word of God with me. By God's grace, I was touched by the message and made the decision to receive Jesus Christ as my Lord and Saviour. We prayed together and I repented of my sins. Amazingly, since the moment I gave my life to Christ, no one has mentioned anything about my dismissal. When I returned to the office and handed in the vehicle, no one took it away from me or questioned me about the issue. I have continued working as usual. I truly believe this is a miracle brought by the grace of Jesus Christ after I accepted Him into my life. All glory and praise be to God. Amen!

Stories from the Brazilian Front

As reported by Chaplain Marcelo da Silva Soares

"I need help!"

As we arrive at the Port each morning, we go to the chapel for a time of prayer and preparation before heading out to meet truckers on the lot. Here we introduce ourselves, share what we do, and make ourselves available to anyone who would like to talk. That's how we met truck driver Barbosa. After talking for a while, I invited him to see the chapel. He came along, curious to know more about our work.

As we talked, he shared that he believed in God and was a nominal church member but knew he needed a change in his life. He was in his second marriage, and he really wanted this one to work. "But I need help," he added, "so that this time, things don't go wrong." We opened God's Word together and explained the Bible's view of marriage and family and how Christ could bring into his life and marriage the change he was seeking. When we asked if he would like to commit his life to Jesus Christ, he readily replied, "Yes!" We prayed with him as he surrendered his life to the Lord.

He knew about God – now he knows God!

Carlos (with glasses) and Savarino have been friends for many years and always travel together. They saw the chapel on the lot and sought us out, curious to know what we were all about. I invited them in to see it and learn more about what we do. Savarino wanted to know more about our mission, saying he knew about God's power in our lives. When he said this, I asked if he'd ever had an experience with God he could share with us. He said he had and told us about the time his son, Osvaldo, started complaining of unrelenting back pain; he was only 22 years old at the time. Osvaldo was taken to the doctor, and tests revealed that he had cancer that had spread to his lungs and part of his intestines. He underwent three surgeries and 58 chemotherapy treatments. Savarino shared that both his wife and son are Christians, and many people had prayed for Osvaldo's healing. "And according to the tests performed last month, he's cured!" exclaimed Savarino.

I then asked him if he served God. Savarino stopped and thought before sharing that he didn't go to church and had never made a decision to follow Christ. We talked about how we all need to be grateful to God for His blessings. When we asked if he would like to express his gratitude and surrender his life to the God who performed this miracle in his son's life, his answer was immediate: "Yes, I do!"

He just wanted his blood pressure checked

Truck driver Claudio (pictured here having his blood pressure checked) accepted our chaplains' invitation to visit the chapel in Campo Grande and learn more about our ministry. Upon his arrival, he immediately requested to have his blood pressure checked. As he talked with chaplains Marcio and Rubiley, he opened up about how he had been far from the ways of Christ for several years—actually, he wasn't sure he'd ever committed his life to Him.

Our chaplains opened God's Word and shared with him how he could have a personal relationship with Jesus by committing his life to Him. Claudio said he wanted to do that, and prayed with the chaplains, accepting Jesus as his Saviour.

He Found His Way Back

Célio and his friend came to us not only to have their blood pressure checked but also to learn about our mission. Célio shared something that seems to be a sad characteristic of the trucking life: he told us that he is in his second marriage and they're having problems. Some of the issues are that his current wife does not like his son (from his first marriage) and that she no longer wants to go to church with him. This had affected his own church attendance for some time, as he didn't want to go by himself. He told us that all of this has affected his relationship with Christ, and to make matters worse, he said he had some failures and felt like he'd lost his way.

We talked about God's forgiveness and how He always welcomes repentant children back. When we asked him if he would like to renew his relationship with Christ, his response was immediate: "Yes, I really need to do that!" We prayed with him as he recommitted his life to Christ.

Ongoing Ministry

The ministry of the chaplains has many facets beyond what happens at the chapels.

- Every Wednesday morning, one of our chaplains has a devotional time for the employees and directors of the SUDMAR Transportation Company. He then makes himself available to assist with counseling and prayer when there is a need.
- Every Friday there is a livestream on Facebook, with a devotional word from a chaplain, and often also singing of hymns.
- Chaplain Jefferson has started the practice of giving a short devotional and having a time of singing praises out on the lot, using a mike and amplifiers. This has helped make truckers who sometimes only stop at the pumps aware that there is ministry available to them.

- We walk the lot throughout the day, connecting with truckers who stay by their trucks. Many have their meals by their trucks, and call us to sit with.
- And of course we continue providing free blood pressure checks and haircuts.

Nouvelles en Français du Québec

Par Jacques Poirier, Aumônier - Saint-Liboire, Québec

'Le Seigneur dans ces passages nous enseigne comment nous devons prier. Il y a une gradation dans la présentation de cet exposé. Premièrement, il nous dit d'adresser à l'égard du Père l'adoration, ensuite nous devons Lui demander de manifester son règne et sa volonté sur la terre comme au ciel.'
- Matthieu 6:9-13

Dans la deuxième partie nous devons demander à Dieu la provision pour nos besoins de base et le pardon de nos offenses. Le dernier passage nous ramène à l'adoration.

Le point que j'aimerais toucher maintenant est le pardon. Il est écrit pardonne-nous nos offenses comme nous les pardonnons à ceux qui nous ont offensés. Il y a ici le concept d'un pardon conditionnel. Cette condition ramène à une autre histoire des Saints Écritures dans l'évangile de Matthieu 18, 21 à 32 dans laquelle un serviteur avait vu sa dette annulée par son maitre. Ce même serviteur ayant quitté son maitre qui lui avait fait du bien se tourna vers un de ses compagnons et le fit mettre en prison pour une dette qui était bien inférieure. Lorsque le maitre l'apprit, il le remit au bourreau à cause de son comportement inapproprié.

Au verset 14 du chapitre 6 de l'évangile de Matthieu il est écrit (si vous pardonnez aux hommes leurs offenses, votre Père céleste vous pardonnera aussi.) Le pardon est donc très important, il fait partie intégrante des conditions pour le recevoir en retour.

Il y a cependant une réalité dont personne ne tient compte lorsque nous pardonnons. La personne que nous pardonnons n'est toujours pardonnée. J'aimerais vous ramener au plan de Dieu pour notre salut. La première étape est de prendre conscience de notre état de pécheur, la deuxième est de reconnaitre que nous avons besoin du pardon de Dieu et la troisième est de recevoir ce pardon qui nous est offert par Jésus qui a pris toutes nos fautes à la croix. Nous recevons le pardon en le demandant avec insistance tout comme dans l'exemple du serviteur impitoyable que nous avons lu dans Matthieu 18. Le maitre lui a accordé le pardon et lui a remis sa dette. Ce serviteur ne s'est pas comporté comme quelqu'un avait été pardonné. Il y a ici une leçon importante.

Revenons à notre personnage à qui nous avons pardonné son offense. L'individu en question peut vous avoir fait tord et ne jamais le reconnaitre. La question qui se pose ici est : S'il n'a pas réclamé le pardon, est-il pardonné? S'il n'a pas reconnu sa faute est-il pardonné?

Tout comme le pardon de Dieu est disponible à cause du sacrifice de Jésus, Notre pardon est disponible si l'offenseur le demande et lorsqu'il est disponible, il le reçoit.

Mon ami, si tu n'es pas allé demander pardon, tu n'es pas pardonné quand même la personne offensée t'aurait pardonné. Empresse-toi de mettre les choses en règle.

Sur ces mots je vous souhaite d'avoir une vie remplie et heureuse!
Que la paix de Dieu vous accompagne!

Friends

Back in the early '90s there was a television show called Friends, based on six friends who basically did life together in New York City. While I didn't agree with many of the activities they participated in, the idea of the closeness they shared intrigued me.

That closeness makes me think of two people that had a large influence on me, both physically and spiritually, as I was growing up. The first is my dad. I've grown to love and use many of his words of wisdom. One of those was "You're known by the company you keep"— meaning that you would be influenced by those with whom you hung around. The other is a medical surgeon that taught me to love God's Word. He used to tell me that you are always surrounded by people in your life, so be very careful who you pick to be surrounded by. He shared that you will always have someone above you who mentors you and someone below you who you mentor. Then there are people on either side of you, your peers, who keep you accountable to the standards you've set.

I'd like to share with you about some friends from God's Word who I think are a good model for us to follow. They are found in Philippians chapter two, verses sixteen through thirty. We see there three friends doing life together. The first is the Apostle Paul. He was the mentor of the group, setting the standards and leading the way. He states in verse sixteen that one desire of his work was to "not run in vain." Even if he was "poured out as a drink offering" (referring to his suffering), he wanted to be able to share his joy with them, the people in Philippi. The word "rejoice" (or its shorter version "joy") is found several times in these verses, and when a word is used again and again in the Bible, it's important.

Then Paul goes on to say that he will be sending two of his friends to Philippi to help them with their journey. The first was Timothy. He describes Timothy as an encourager and one who has a kindred spirit. He also tells them in verse twenty that he is genuine and doesn't seek his own interests. If that weren't enough, he goes on to say that Timothy is also selfless and obedient.

The second person is Epaphroditus. He too will be sent to help those in Philippi. Paul describes him as his brother, fellow worker, and fellow soldier. Just a small footnote here, I have two brothers that mean the world to me. I also have served in the United States Army, and the fellow soldiers that serve with you are very important as well. This is the type of person Epaphroditus was.

In the final verses of chapter two, Paul ends with the idea of "joy." He says that they will be able to rejoice when they see him, and "receive him then in the Lord with all joy, and hold men like him in high regard."

So please let me encourage you to surround yourself with people of great character qualities like these three. Paul mentored Timothy and Epaphroditus so that they could mentor those in Philippi. They kept each other accountable to the things of the Lord and were filled with great joy because of it.

HISTORY OUR STORY

The Opportunity of a Lifetime—Wasted!

Jeroboam was not of royal lineage, but he was a respected official in King Solomon's administration and responsible for managing labor for construction projects in Jerusalem. King Solomon was a harsh task master in the last years of his reign. His son Rehoboam, who succeeded him as king, made the lives of the workers much harder than even his father had done.

A prophet of the Lord, Ahijah, visited Jeroboam and said that because King Solomon and the people of Israel had forsaken the Lord, worshipped foreign gods, and did evil, the Lord was going to tear the kingdom out of his hands and give Jeroboam 10 of the 12 tribes to rule. The remaining two tribes, Judah and Benjamin (including the city of Jerusalem), would be left for Rehoboam to rule, for the sake of King David.

This declaration to Jeroboam came with an incredible opportunity. God was saying, "I will take you, and you will rule over all that your heart desires; you will be king over Israel. If you do whatever I command you and walk in obedience to me and do what is right in my eyes by obeying my decrees and commands, as David my servant did, I will be with you. I will build you a dynasty as enduring as the one I built for David and will give Israel to you" (1 Kings 11:37-38).

Your life and story are important, and God has a special part of His Story to write with you specifically in mind. Throughout human history, He has chosen to interact with regular people like you and me to fulfil His plan. Each Christian, each follower of Jesus Christ, has a unique place in His Story.

For Jeroboam, this was the opportunity of a lifetime! He would be made king of Israel with the promise that God would make his kingdom a dynasty—provided he would follow the commands and the ways of the Lord. Shortly after King Rehoboam succeeded his father to the throne, Ahijah's prophecy was fulfilled. The people rebelled and 10 of the tribes broke away and made Jeroboam their king; they became known as Israel, while the two remaining tribes, located in the southern part, became known as Judah.

Jerusalem was still the city where the Lord had chosen to put His name and His temple. Jeroboam, who ruled what had been the northern part of Israel, was concerned that some of his people might go back south to Jerusalem to worship God at the temple. If the people considered these visits to worship God in Jerusalem important, and it turned into a habit, Jeroboam was afraid they might eventually defect to Judah. After seeking other's advice, he built two golden calves and shrines to foreign gods both in the north and south of his kingdom, giving his people the convenience to go to one of these centers and not be tempted to go to Jerusalem to worship the true God.

Jeroboam wasted the opportunity of a lifetime; the Bible states he did more evil than all who lived before him (1 Kings 14:9). Instead of building a lasting dynasty, his whole family was wiped out by Baasha, who later became king. Every king that followed Jeroboam turned to idol worship.

Jeroboam came from an ordinary family and was given an incredible opportunity to build a dynasty and lead Israel in the ways of the Lord. Instead, he wasted his life, with disastrous results.

The Bible includes real life stories like Jeroboam's to remind us that our choices impact our families and those in our sphere of influence. As Jesus' followers, may we be encouraged to be faithful ambassadors for the Lord, using every opportunity to follow Him and share His love and truth with those around us.

A Closing Word
From the Canadian Director

Rev. Daniel Chatham

Recently Transport For Christ launched the DRIVERSMATTER.CA website. On this simple web landing page there are three bold statements written for drivers: "You are not alone," "You matter to us," and "You matter to God." The last statement is the foundation for the other two. If it is true, the other two statements become believable.

All humans are, at some level, on the search for significance. We use many things while attempting to establish that significance: profession, wealth, notoriety, and in our world today, "likes" and "followers." However, in the game of comparison we humans play, there is always someone who is better or has more. For those that work in the transportation industry, little significance is given by others for the essential work that you do. But what about God? Does He judge significance the same way? Does He compare us to others to determine our value?

There is a wonderful story in the Bible about Jesus' interaction with the woman at the well. The interaction reveals how God determines human significance. The woman possessed no social significance. She just didn't matter to anyone around her, except Jesus. She was ignored and alone even in the menial task of getting water to survive. She wasn't even good at relationships, which would have been vital to giving her social standing in that culture.

Jesus begins a conversation with her with a simple request: "Give me a drink" (John 4:7). This request from Jesus breaks into the woman's aloneness; it tells her and says "I see you, I notice you". This conversation between the two ends with Jesus clearly revealing Himself to her. When she says that she knew Messiah would come, Jesus tells her, "I, the one speaking to you—I am he" (John 4:26).

Jesus shares with this Samaritan woman the most important information ever given to humans. Why did Jesus entrust this to her? Because she mattered to Him. Her significance was not determined by comparing her to others, but by a different measurement. She was important because she was God's creation. This is what makes every human being important. You matter to God because you are His. You are His plan, his workmanship, you are His child. Much like the newborn child that brings joy to parents and grandparents, you matter to God because you are His.

If you want to explore why you matter, go to DRIVERSMATTER.CA and call or text an online chaplain.

Do you know where you will spend eternity? You can – it's as easy as ABC...

A Admit that you have sinned.
"For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23).
"For the wages of sin is death…" (Romans 6:23a).
God loves us and wants a relationship with us; but He is holy and perfect and our sin separates us from Him.

B Believe that Jesus paid God's price for our sin when He died on the cross.
"But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8).
"…but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 6:23b).
God sent Jesus Christ to take the punishment for our sins on Himself, dying on the cross. When He rose from the dead on Easter morning, He broke the power of sin over those who choose to accept Him as their Saviour and Lord.

C Choose to accept Jesus' sacrifice for you and receive the free gift of forgiveness He offers.
"If you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved…For 'whoever calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved'" (Romans 10:9,13).
"If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9).

You CAN know where you will spend eternity. If you want to begin a relationship with God and allow Him to become your Forgiver and Saviour, pray this prayer and believe it in your heart: "God, I know that I have sinned and need forgiveness. Thank You for sending Jesus to pay the price for my sin so I can have a relationship with You. Today I put my trust in You. Become the leader of my life and help me to follow You from today forward. Amen."

If you prayed this prayer, we would like to help you begin your exciting new journey. Please send us an email to transportforchrist@outlook.com and let us know, so we can help you along this road.
