INSIDE VIEW

Rev. Kevin Scott

If you drive for a living, you notice the seasons changing long before most people do. Drivers see it in the condition of the roads, the feel of the air when you step out of the cab, and the way the highways themselves seem to change throughout the year.

Winter reminds us just how demanding the road can be. Snowstorms roll in quickly, turning a normal trip into a slow crawl. Ice forms on ramps and bridges, and every mile requires focus and patience. Many drivers have spent long nights gripping the wheel through blowing snow, watching the taillights ahead and hoping the road stays clear. But eventually winter begins to loosen its grip. The days get a little longer. The sun feels warmer through the windshield. Snowbanks shrink, and the first real signs of spring appear.

Spring always feels like a fresh start.

Yet every experienced driver also knows that when the seasons change, the road simply trades one set of problems for another. The winter storms that delayed traffic are replaced by construction zones that stretch for miles. The icy pavement that once threatened to send us sliding into the ditch now shows its scars in the form of potholes that shake the whole truck. The scenery changes, but the challenges keep coming.

In many ways, life in this world works the same way. Things move in cycles. One season replaces another. One problem fades, and another takes its place. From the outside it looks like change, but often nothing really becomes new. The Bible speaks about this in Ecclesiastes when it says, “There is nothing new under the sun” (1:9). Human life has always followed the same patterns. People chase success, security, or satisfaction, hoping that the next thing will finally bring happiness, bring peace. Yet generation after generation discovers the same truth: the world keeps turning, but the human heart remains the same. Without God, life can become an endless loop of repeating cycles.

But the message of the Gospel tells us that real change is possible—and it’s possible because of what Jesus did at Easter.

When Jesus went to the cross, He carried the weight of our sin, our failures, and the brokenness that keeps us trapped in those same old cycles. And when He rose from the grave, He opened the door for something the world itself cannot produce—true new life. The Bible says, “If anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation. The old has gone, the new has come” (2 Corinthians 5:17). That kind of change doesn’t come from trying harder or turning over a new leaf. It comes from trusting the One who defeated sin and death.

Many drivers know what it feels like to carry heavy things down the highway—stress, loneliness, regrets, or habits we wish we could leave behind. The long miles and quiet nights can sometimes make life feel like we’re stuck running the same route over and over again. But Jesus offers a different road.

Through Him the past can be forgiven. The weight we carry can be lifted. The direction of our life can change. Instead of just repeating the same patterns, we can begin walking in a new life that God is shaping day by day.

The road ahead will still have storms, construction zones, and potholes. Life will always bring challenges. But when Christ is at the center of your life, you’re no longer just going in circles. You’re moving forward with purpose, guided by the One who walks with you through every mile.

Through Jesus—and because of what He accomplished at Easter—true newness is possible. If you want to know more about how you can experience this newness, this true change, visit www.DriversMatter.ca or call 249-506-0100 to talk with someone who understands and cares.

Singing on the Highway:

The Inspiring Story of Zambian Truck Driver Jabes Mumba

By Chaplain Brian Teputepu

For many long-distance truck drivers, the road is simply a place of work. But for Jabes Mumba, a Zambian truck driver and Gospel minister, the highway has become a mission field where music, faith, and service meet.

Raised in a deeply Christian home, Jabes' journey with God began early in life. Faith was part of the daily rhythm of his upbringing, and church attendance, prayer, and worship were central to family life. It was within this environment that his love for music was first nurtured.

"Singing has always been part of our family routine," he recalls. "At an early age I used to sing with my mother every Sunday in church."

His gift became more evident when he joined the church choir at the age of eight in 1997. What began as a simple participation in the choir soon developed into a deeper calling to use music as a tool for ministry.

Today, while working as a long-distance truck driver across Southern and Central Africa, Jabes carries more than cargo—he carries a message of hope. Along the highways, at truck stops, and in different communities, he shares the Gospel through praise, worship, and acts of kindness.

"Whenever I can, I share the good news," he says. "Sometimes I minister through praise and worship, and sometimes I preach through kindness by sharing the little that I have with those who are in need."

His music journey has not been without challenges. In 2009, Jabes recorded his first single, but due to a lack of support and resources at the time, he was unable to promote it widely. However, his passion for ministry through music did not fade.

"In 2013 we formed a band, and by God's grace we managed to complete an album," he says. Since then, he has received opportunities to minister and perform in various places. Through these experiences, he says he has witnessed God working powerfully through his gift.

Beyond the road and music stage, Jabes also serves in the leadership of his home church. When asked what the future holds for his musical gift, he says that he has a lot to look forward to, but only God has the final answer for his future concerning this gift.

- Continued on page 4

Among his most memorable ministry experiences was an invitation to minister in the Democratic Republic of the Congo. “It was a powerful service,” he recalls. “Seeing people worship and respond to the message was something I will never forget.”

As an avid ACTSA* member, Jabes says, “ACTSA is a family that equips saints with God’s Word. It reminds us that there is a lot ahead of us as we strive to bring out the best for our families.”

Through music, preaching, and service, Jabes Mumba continues to prove that ministry does not only happen inside church walls. Sometimes it happens on dusty highways, in truck stops, and across borders—where a truck driver with a song and a message can touch lives in ways few might expect.

Taking the Message to the Nations

By Chaplain Dr. Norbert Mbwiliza

Along the busy highways of southern Tanzania, where long lines of cargo trucks stretch toward the border, thousands of truck drivers pass through every week carrying goods across nations. Their journeys are long, often lonely, and filled with many challenges. Yet in the midst of these demanding roads, God is quietly transforming lives.

According to Moses Mwampashi, who serves as the Team Leader in Songwe, the impact of this ministry has been nothing short of remarkable.

With deep gratitude, he explains that every day trucks arrive from different countries—Zambia, Malawi, the Democratic Republic of Congo, South Africa, and beyond. In each truck is a driver carrying not only cargo, but also personal struggles, worries, and spiritual needs.

Chaplain Moses with a trucker

Yet something beautiful happens when these drivers hear the message of the hope of the Gospel.

“It brings me great joy to see how God is touching the lives of many truck drivers here in Songwe,” Moses said. “Many come tired and burdened, but after prayer and encouragement, they leave strengthened and full of hope.”

Sometimes a simple conversation beside a parked truck becomes the moment that changes a life. Many drivers who pass through that border have testified that never before had anyone come to them directly with the message of God’s love.

Today, many drivers know that when they reach Songwe, there is a place where they can find spiritual encouragement. What makes this ministry so special is that the Gospel does not remain in one place. When a truck driver receives encouragement and faith, he carries that message with him across borders and nations.

A single prayer at the border can travel thousands of kilometers through the life of a driver.

As reported in our previous edition, several churches joined the TFC staff in their goal to express their appreciation to truckers during the Christmas season by assembling gift bags and stockings with gifts and items for personal use. Many messages, not just written but verbal as well, came our way from truckers expressing their gratefulness for being appreciated!

"We are often forgotten as truck drivers. I never imagined there is someone who cares enough to think of us and give us a gift. I am very thankful."

"You have no idea how much this means. I don't understand why you did this, but I am happy you did."

"I'm just heading out now on the road and won't be home till the New Year. I'm going to save this for Christmas so I have something to open while on the road."

"Thank you for reminding us that God cares—and that some people do as well."

As Chaplains Dan and Len were walking toward a driver and his son, the driver called out, "Hey, I know who you are—I remember you! You gave me a gift bag four years ago and I'll never forget it. It's the only appreciation gift I've been given in 26 years of trucking!"

Nouvelles en Français du Québec

Par Jacques Poirier, Aumônier - Saint-Liboire, Québec

J'aimerais vous partager une réflexion qui pourrait aider chacun à saisir que dans la vie il y a des saisons et que chacune d'elles sont là pour nous emmener à l'endroit que Dieu a prévu pour nos vies.

Je réalise que depuis toujours Dieu avait tracé un chemin pour moi. J'ai aussi constaté que lorsque je m'en écartais, toutes sortes d'événements se produisaient dans ma vie et qu'après avoir fait un bilan sérieux, il était évident que je devais revenir sur la voie qui était la mienne.

Le livre de l'Ecclésiaste au chapitre trois nous dit qu'il y a un temps pour tout, un temps pour toute chose sous les cieux. Si nous essayions de comparer nos vies, il est certains que les différences de parcours se dévoileraient très rapidement. Alors il est important de comprendre que les saisons de la vie peuvent se comparer mais ne coïncideront que très rarement. Ce que nos parents ont vécu ne peut pas être le modèle exact de notre cheminement personnel.

Chez certaines personnes la vie sera facile, simple, linéaire et c'est très bien comme cela. Il y a cependant des gens qui dès leur enfance la turbulence était intense et ils ont eu à se battre beaucoup plus pour arriver à accomplir leurs projets. Chaque être humain est unique et nous ne pouvons en aucun cas utiliser le modèle de vie d'une personne pour tenter d'influencer la vie d'une autre personne. Cela dit, j'aimerais maintenant vous dire que Dieu a créé chacun d'entre nous différent pour entre autres avoir une relation unique avec chacun de nous. Vous voyez probablement ou je veux en venir. Dans l'éventualité ou je suis unique et que je comprends certaines choses de la vie à travers le filtre qui est le mien et qui est lui aussi unique, alors ma relation avec Dieu sera unique.

Dieu dans son infinie bonté nous donne les saisons. Pour certains la première saison est turbulente et pour d'autre le contraire. Quand un changement de saison s'annonce, normalement on se prépare : Il est souvent nécessaire d'acheter de nouveau vêtements ou préparer la voiture afin de s'adapter aux conditions du moment. Il est nécessaire d'apporter les changements appropriés à la situation dans laquelle nous allons entrer.

Si tu es arrivé à un endroit de ta vie ou il est temps d'effectuer un changement demande au créateur de te diriger. Les saisons de la vie apportent parfois des changements profonds qui sont difficiles à effectuer.
Dieu appelle chacun de nous. Il attend notre réponse. Es-tu prêt à le rencontrer? Il a envoyé son fils Jésus tracer le chemin et s'attend à ce que tu le suives.

Sur ces mots je vous souhaite d'avoir une vie remplie et heureuse!

Que la paix de Dieu vous accompagne!

Now Their Spirit Is Healthy As Well

By Chaplain Peter, ministering at the DRC

Chaplain Peter with the drivers

As I was approaching some drivers while walking the lot, I heard one of them say, “A healthy mind in a healthy body is good even for the truck driver.” “Exercise helps us to keep fit and at the same time maintain an alert mind,” said another, and a third one added, “Good health helps a person keep a positive attitude toward work and life in general." They were encouraging each other while exercising to keep their bodies physically fit. I was impressed, seeing their concern about their physical health. That gave me the opportunity to flip the other side of the coin, so to speak, and I asked them if we could talk about spiritual health. “Yes, we can!” they said and immediately stopped what they were doing to listen as I shared God’s Word with them.

I started with reading Mathew 6:33, about seeking God’s kingdom and His righteousness first. We talked about people who have dreams in their lives, who aspire to be rich, to become business tycoons, political leaders, or social reformers. “Just like some of you may have dreamed of becoming truck drivers of great repute,” I said. “And then there are those who, like you, want to live healthier lives. That's good. But there is another question to which you should seek an answer: how is your relationship with God? Truck drivers play a critical role in building the economy of a nation,” I said, “because transportation is critical to the economic growth of nations. They play an essential role, delivering medicine to hospitals, raw materials to the places where they can be manufactured into finished products, and food to grocery stores, just to name a few.

“God’s desire is that we are as faithful in our relationship with Him as we are in rendering our services to the people,” I pointed out. I then asked if they were willing to make things right with God. All three said this was their desire, so I led them in a prayer as they committed their lives to Him.

Later, one of the drivers, Mr. Zacks, expressed his gratitude to the ministry and all the partners who made it possible for them to be reached with the message of the Gospel. He said that as a result of his decision, he felt a deep peace and was encouraged to serve the Lord while working as a truck driver.

A Report from Brazil by Chaplain Marcelo

A Life Redeemed

Trucker Renan told me that God had given him another chance at life, curing him of cancer. As we talked, he admitted that he did not walk with God, and that led our conversation about what life is like when we are away from God – we become an easy target for the enemy. On the other hand, when God is in control of our lives, He is faithful and protects us. He understood his need, and committed his life to Jesus Christ as his Saviour and Lord.

A Life Restored

Trucker João Paulo was listening to the worship songs we play on our speaker outside the chapel. Curious, he stepped into the chapel to find out what we were all about. As we started talking, he told me that he is from Rio Verde (where we just placed a chapel!), is married and has a three-year-old daughter. He also told us that he once followed Christ but had turned away from his faith several years ago. I told him that Christ would always welcome him back, and that returning to Him would be the best choice for him as a husband and father. After a good conversation and citing some Bible passages, I asked him if he would like to renew his commitment to Christ, and he said yes, he needed to do that. As he returns to his town, he will have easy access to a place where he will find encouragement as he grows in his faith—our chapel!

Eyes on the Road

Each time a driver receives a new dispatch, one of the first things he or she looks at is the final destination. Without knowing where you are going, you will not be able to get there.

Years ago, we'd sit down with a Rand McNally map book and plan out all the different highways we would need to take to get to our delivery location. Of course, today we're done with maps—it's our GPS or cell phone. Once you figure out how long it will take and the highways you're going to travel, then you can calculate where your fuel stops and planned breaks will be.

Other than checking your mirrors for safety reasons, you really don't look back to where you came from. If you did, you would not be able to see what lies ahead of you and that wouldn't be safe! We need to keep our eyes on the road in front of us.

Now, we all know that we'll encounter different obstacles along the way. Snow or rain can slow us down, but there will also be traffic jams, road construction, posted detours and accidents that can alter our route. There are a lot of distractions on the road.

Our lives are much the same way. Let me share with you what the Apostle Paul has to say about keeping our eyes forward. Philippians chapter three, verses thirteen and fourteen give us a clear view of how we are to handle our life's path. Look at what he says in the middle of verse thirteen: "But one thing I do: forgetting what lies behind." If there are things that you have done in the past and things you may regret or are ashamed of, don't feel alone—we all have been there. Satan would love nothing more than for us to lose our way because of things in the past. Paul finishes that verse by saying "and reaching forward to what lies ahead." There's a sense of joy that comes with keeping your eyes looking forward. Don't get bogged down with the past.

Paul continues his thoughts in verse fourteen. He says, "I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus." God has called us to walk in fellowship with Him. If you're not sure if you have ever made the decision to walk with God, don't wait another minute. Contact someone from this ministry today (see the back of this magazine for contact information).

The ultimate prize waiting for us is that we get to spend eternity with Him. What joy that will be! But He also has things for us to do along the highway of life. So just like keeping our eyes on the road, we must keep our eyes fixed on Jesus Christ so that we can enjoy the prize both while on the journey and when we reach our destination.

HISTORY OUR STORY

King Hezekiah—Breaking the Pattern

Many of us are shaped by our parents and spend our lives repeating the patterns that we have inherited. Yet some take courageous actions and choose a very different pathway. Hezekiah, King of Judah, was faced with this choice.

His father, King Ahaz, was an evil leader. "He promoted wickedness in Judah and had been most unfaithful to the Lord" (2 Chronicles 28:19). He closed the temple of the Lord, preventing public worship of the true God, and made cast idols for the worship of false gods. He even sacrificed his sons to these gods! Because of this blatant idolatry, the Lord withdrew his favour from Judah, and the nation suffered greatly at the hands of their enemies. Hezekiah recognized the result of his father's idolatry when he told the people: "The anger of the Lord has fallen on Judah. That is why our fathers have fallen by the sword, and our sons and daughters and our wives are in captivity" (2 Chronicles 29:8-9).

Hezekiah was only 25 years old when he became king. He made the courageous choice not to follow in his father's footsteps and instead "did what was right in the eyes of the Lord" (2 Chronicles 29:2).

In the first month of the first year of his reign, he opened the doors of the temple and called together the priests and Levites to repair and clean the house of the Lord. What courage for a young king, to make such a bold public statement to the nation, calling them to return to the God of their fathers. After the temple was repaired and purified, Hezekiah gathered the city officials to worship God and celebrate the reopening of the temple. Amid singing and music, prayers and bowed heads, King Hezekiah and all the officials worshipped the Lord, and the "service of the temple of the Lord was reestablished" (2 Chronicles 29:35).

Your life and story are important, and God has a special part of His Story to write with you specifically in mind. Throughout human history, He has chosen to interact with regular people like you and me to fulfil His plan. Each Christian, each follower of Jesus Christ, has a unique place in His Story.

In the second month, Hezekiah sent a proclamation throughout the whole nation calling the people to come to Jerusalem and celebrate the Passover of the Lord, the God of Israel. A very large crowd gathered and "there was great joy in Jerusalem, for since the days of Solomon there had been nothing like this" (1 Chronicles 30:26). After this nationwide revival, the people of Judah went back to their homes and destroyed the idols and the high places where false gods had been worshipped. They returned to following the true God.

King Hezekiah is a good example for us today. Our past does not have to shape our future. Though raised in a home marked by unfaithfulness, he chose to reject the evil ways of his father and follow and obey the true God.

As king, his choices influenced an entire nation. When Hezekiah turned back to God and publicly reinstituted the worship of the Lord at the temple and the celebration of the Passover, the people followed him.Decisions that we make today also impact others. Choosing to follow Jesus and share His love and grace with others can have an impact on our children, families, and even those we work with each day. Unfortunately, making wrong choices, like those of Ahaz, can also impact those in our sphere of influence, but in a negative way.

Hezekiah chose not to follow the patterns that he inherited, choosing instead to follow and honour God. The result was that "the Lord heard Hezekiah and healed the people" (1 Chronicles 30:20) and protected the nation from its enemies.

As followers of Jesus, may we be encouraged to be courageous ambassadors for the Lord, choosing to follow Him, regardless of our backgrounds, and share the love and truth of Christ with those in our sphere of influence.

A Closing Word
From the Canadian Director

Rev. Daniel Chatham

"I have been trying to pray," a driver told me in a recent conversation. He was going through a dark, winter-like season; the death of a close family member was his bleakest day. "Prayer did seem to help," he said, then added that he wasn't sure he was doing it right or even knew how to pray.

Is this a common feeling surrounding the challenging moments of life? You have a sense that you need help but don't really know how to ask for it?

At first this may sound out of the norm for Canadians. A recent Angus Reid Poll revealed that 85% of Canadians still pray, at least occasionally, with over 40% praying weekly. Yet for most of us, prayer is a very private reality. We don't talk about it very much or ask others about it. Maybe this is the source of the uncertainty about prayer.

The driver continued the conversation with a couple of questions: How do I pray? And how do I know God is listening to me? Jesus was asked a similar question after His disciples had listened to Him pray. His response, to teach them about prayer, begins with a simple but astonishing word.

"And He [Jesus] said to them, 'When you pray, say: Father, hallowed be your name'" (Luke 11:2).

Beginning a prayer with the word "Father" would have been a foreign idea to the ones who asked Jesus to teach them how to pray. It was too intimate, too close for them to be comfortable with it. Yet God allows and even encourages His followers to call Him Father. But this goes even deeper, as in the original the name Jesus tells Christians to use is the one used by little children. In other words, He invites you to begin the prayer with "Dad."

This sets the relationship: A strong and loving father with his child who needs him. This is what Jesus is teaching you about prayer. This is the opportunity of prayer, even the gift of prayer.

Many drivers know what it feels like to carry heavy things down the highway—stress, loneliness, regrets, or habits. God is inviting you to talk to Him about these struggles, or anything else you may be facing.

We would love to hear from you about the struggles facing drivers presently. You can reach us at DRIVERSMATTER.CA to call or text an online chaplain or by visiting one of our chapels.

Partnership Information

This ministry to the trucking industry is only possible thanks to generous donations from people just like you. Tax-deductible donations can be made in one of the following ways:

In Canada:
Online: Go to www.TransportForChrist.ca and choose "donate"
E-transfer: Send to donate@transportforchrist.ca

In the United States:
Go to www.gracechurchga.org/give; click the drop down menu and choose Overseas Ministries (TFC).

Or scan the QR code on the right.

Thank you for your partnership and support!

Do you know where you will spend eternity? You can – it's as easy as ABC...

A Admit that you have sinned.
"For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23).
"For the wages of sin is death…" (Romans 6:23a).
God loves us and wants a relationship with us; but He is holy and perfect and our sin separates us from Him.

B Believe that Jesus paid God's price for our sin when He died on the cross.
"But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8).
"…but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 6:23b).
God sent Jesus Christ to take the punishment for our sins on Himself, dying on the cross. When He rose from the dead on Easter morning, He broke the power of sin over those who choose to accept Him as their Saviour and Lord.

C Choose to accept Jesus' sacrifice for you and receive the free gift of forgiveness He offers.
"If you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved…For 'whoever calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved'" (Romans 10:9,13).
"If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9).

You CAN know where you will spend eternity. If you want to begin a relationship with God and allow Him to become your Forgiver and Saviour, pray this prayer and believe it in your heart: "God, I know that I have sinned and need forgiveness. Thank You for sending Jesus to pay the price for my sin so I can have a relationship with You. Today I put my trust in You. Become the leader of my life and help me to follow You from today forward. Amen."

If you prayed this prayer, we would like to help you begin your exciting new journey. Please send us an email to transportforchrist@outlook.com and let us know, so we can help you along this road.
